The two Anglo-Sayon words, HOLEGN (or HOLEN, a holly bush or tree) and WORP (or WURME - pronounced like "worth" - meaning an enclosure or farmstead with a protective wall about it) are said to be the roots which formed the ancient placename HOLYNWORTHE, later HOL-LINGWORTH. One or two such places are located morth of Manchester, England, in Salford Hundred, another is a modern township in the Parish of Mottram-in-Longdendale, northeast Cheshire, just a few miles to the southeast of Manchester. HULISURDE (i.e. Hollisworth) of Domesday for Cheshire (c1086) is probably the same place. From this particular place, it is believed that men first took up the name as a sire-name or surname. It is possible that more than one unrelated family took up the name from this place, or from the other places in Lancashire. The earliest documented appearance of the word used as a surname, as observed by us, is in a Charter of the Godley family of Cheshire, signed about the time of Magna Carta (c1215) wherein "TOMAS De HCLINEWURTH" was one of the witnesses. The man may have actually been one of the relatives of the Godleys (De Goddeleigh) then residing "in Holvnworth" and thus using that appellation in his name. It is difficult to say whether the Hollingsworth, Hollingworth, Hellinsworth and Hollinworth families were of Anglo-Saxon, Norman, or Welsh derivation. Their Given names seem to indicate they were Norman: Reignould, Lawrence, Cecily, Roberte; so also does the fact that Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, a fat Norman, was the landlord of Mottram! The late Capt. Robert · De Hollingeworthe of Hollingworth Hall, claimed that an ancient pedigree of his family placed the family at Mottram in 1022 as holders of the Manor. This source has never been confirmed and is thought to be spurious. In the seventeenth century the spelling with medial s: Hollingsworth, began to be used. It seems to derive from a possessive or genitive idea: "Holling's Worth" or, "The Worth of Mr. Hollings". Contrary to popular ideas, Hollingworth is not "the English form" of this name. Both forms arose in England long before emigration to any other country.

First Hollingsworth Family in Mississippi - Part One

This series deals with the Hollingsworth family of Newton County, Mississippi. Some of the readers interested in this family may think it a bit previous, but the anxiety expressed by so large a posterity of this old family, as well as the serious errors rampant about them, makes it mandatory that we publish what we have now.

Isaac Hollingsworth was the first of his surname to bring his family and settle in Mississippi Territory. His brother, Jacob, was the next in order of such a settlement. Isaac & Jacob were already adults when Mississippi was organized as a Territory of the United States, in 1798. By the time Statehood was achieved (1817), Isaac Hollingsworth had been settled in the Territory a number of years. (There is a single reference to a William Hollingsworth, in Mississippi in 1802, but no further information about him after.) To these men belong the acclaim for having made the first permanent Hollingsworth settlement in Mississippi. Their descendants still abound in the area, and the family has always had a place of high esteem in the public eye, and a deep religious faith in its private life.

Isaac Hollingsworth was born about 1780, in North Carolina. The U.S. Census, 1850 and 1860 confirm this. (A work called "Family Records of Mississippi Revolutionary Soldiers," by Alice Tracy Welsh, page 348, asserts that Isaac's age in 1850 is "109 years," and, based on this false assumption, supposes him to be the Isaac who was the Revolutionary Soldier in Twiggs County, Georgia, in 1827. The actual reading of his age in 1850, is "69.") He died about 1866 near Decatur, Newton County, at the age of about 85. He had resided there for about 30 years. The Court House at Decatur burned in 1876 and with it burned the best of the records about this family! In some cases the loss was made good when members of the family brought their old deeds in and re-recorded them after the fire. A complete coverage of the County records for Hollingsworth material has never been made. No telling that juicy information awaits us!

The exact location of birth of Isaac Hollingsworth and his only known brother, Jacob, is not known. Great-grandchildren of Isaac say that he "came from the Carolinas." But the particulars of his parentage and exact birthplace have been lost to living memory.
Unless proof through records is found, be may never enjoy, the rebirth of this part of the history. This writer has been helped immensely by many members of this family, and, as a consequence, has amassed a good amount of material about it. Still, much is missing.

as children in their father's bousehold, in 1790, they both would have been listed as "males under 16 years." There are seven families listed in that census who have at least 2 such children (or rersons) in the enumerations. (See REGISTER, April, 1965, p. 16.) Let us cover this list: (The Census of 1790 listed families by

"Free White Males, including Heads of Families: Over 16 years; Under 16 years; Free White Females, all ages; All other Free Persons, Except Indians, Not Taxed; Slaves." In 1790, Isaac was about 10: Jacob about 15 years old. If they WERE in North Carolina, and if the Census taker didn't miss that family, the following seven families might have included them: (1) Henry Hollingsworth, Sampson County; (2) Jacob Hollingsworth, Burke County; (3) James Hollingsworth, Sampson County; (4) Samuel Hollingsworth, Burke County; (5) Samuel Hollingsworth, Cumberland County; (6) Vineon (Vinson) Hollingsworth, Wilkes County; (7) William Hollingsworth, Duplin County. If perchance, the boys were in South Carolina in 1790, there were thirteen Hollingsworth families there who might qualify! We will, therefore, confine our analysis to North Carolina, unless future research disqualifies and eliminates all the "candidates!"

Information from other sources, too lengthy to publish here, eliminates the following: (1) Henry in Sampson County; (2) Jacob in Burke County: (3) James in Sampson County; (4) Samuel in Burke County. Suffice it to say, we have records or good implications of the names of the families of these men, and they do not include our present subjects. The other three can not be eliminated, as far as this writer is concerned. (Information gladly accepted!) Of these, however, Vinson (Vincent) Hollingsworth of Wilkes County, might be disqualified on the basis that he is not a descendant of Valentine Hollingsworth the American Quaker Immigrant. Descendants of Isaac Hollingsworth of Mississippi hold traditions that he was from Valentine. (Vincent was from John Hollingsworth who came to Marvland in 1650.) This leaves us two families to deal with. Of William in Duplin we know nothing.

Samuel Hollingsworth of Fayetteville, Cumberland County, is the best likely person to be the father of the Mississippi pioneers. In 1790 he had 7 males over 16; 2 males under 16; and 3 females, plus 10 slaves! Other information shows he was a soldier of the Revolution, and a signer of the "Cumberland Association" of 1775, in behalf of Independence. He was born about 1740 and died about 1814, aged about 74 years, supposedly by the bite of a venomous snake. (Descendants of Valentine Hollingsworth, Sr., (1925) by J. A. Stewart, page 140.)

The recent publication, "Mississippi Daughters & Their Ancestors," a D.A.R. work, page 117, lists "HOLLINGSWORTH, Samuel; 1740-1814: North Carolina; m. (2) Sarah Murphy 1804: Ch.: Samuel H. m. Liney Smith; Desc.: Mrs. Lorene Rayburn CONNER." As far as the information we have, the above is very incorrect. Samuel Hollingsworth who married Liney or Linna Smith, was a son of Isaac Hollingsworth of Newton County, Mississippi. He was born in Mississippi about 1814/15. (See further.) But, as reflected in the opinions of several in the family, it appears that "a generation has been left out here." In other words, Isaac Hollingsworth has been left out, and Samuel H. Hollingsworth who married Liney Smith was the Soldier's grandson, not his son! Also: Isaac would be by the Soldier's first wife (name unknown), not the second.

As the article in December, 1966 REGISTER shows, Samuel the Soldier was a grandson of John<sup>2</sup> & Catherine (Tyler) Hollingsworth, whose children were all reared in the staunch "Welsh Bartist" form of belief, commonly called "Primitive Baptist." As far as we can tell, the Soldier was of the same belief. And so was Isaac Hol-lingsworth of Mississippi and his family. Among his grandchildren were many lay and ordained ministers! All of this is in the tradition of Rev. Stephen Hollingsworth, founder of Calvinism at Cane Fear River, the oldest son of John & Catherine. Samuel the soldier of Favetteville was probably his son, and Isaac and Jacob of Mississippi may have been his two youngest sons in 1790! Stewart (copying the 1884 book by Wm. B. Hollingsworth of Baltimore, Marvland) lists but 4 sons of the Soldier: John, Stephen, Enoch & (This writer has found deeds in Cumberland County between "Samuel Hollingsworth, Senior, & Samuel Hollingsworth, Junior, both of Cumberland County, North Carolina, as of the year 1795:) If the 1790 Ce sus is listing for us only the one man, his wife, and children, it is readily seen that a number of the children are left. out in Stewart's list! The number is 6, four of whom were sons! So, we only know the names of four of the eight sons of Samuel the Soldier! Even if Isaac and Jacob are at length identified as two of these four - who were the others? We will return to our subject in Mississippi and find a partial answer there.

Isaac Hollings orth vas himself a soldier. He served as both a regular member, and as the gunsmith, in the Company commanded by Capt. William Smith, in the 13th Regiment Infantry, Mississippi Territory Militia, enrolled for 3 months, serving one month, at least, from January 6th to February 5th, 1815. The National Archives has only three small payment slips on him, and one of them shors he was "on command to the smith shop." This confirms the family tradition that he was a gun smith by trade. On January 19, 1815, about 320 persons signed a Petition for relief of the distress caused by their recent service as soldiers in the War of 1812. Isaac Hollings orth signed this document along with his captain. (H.F. 13 Congress, 3 session DS. Copy in "Territorial Papers of the U.S.A. Mississippi Terr." by Charence Edwin Carter, Vols. 5 & 6, Archives, Jackson, Miss. Original document probably at National Arcrives, Washington, D.C. 20408.) The Petition was signed at Camp Pearl River in the Miss. Territory. The Territorial Census of Mississippi, 1816, lists Isaac Hollingsworth in Lawrence County. (The above Potition is stated to be made by persons in Pike and Lavrence Counties.) The Tax Assessments, 1818, for Lawrence County, list him paving tax on 160 acres, located on "Fair River." (Per letter, Feb. 14, 1967, from Archives, Jackson, Miss. The letter states that such a river is not found on modern mans. Can this be some corruption of the name "Pearl River?" This great river runs through Layrence County.) The U.S. Census of 1820, the first national enumeration available for that area, shows both Jacob and Isaac Hollingsworth in Touship # 7" of Lawrence County, with families. The Range not being designated, it is hard to say where the land lay, but it could have been on the edge of Pearl Hiver. a family of 13: 4 sons under 10; 2 sons of 10 and under 16; 1 daughter under 10; and 4 daughters of 10 under 16: Isaac is listed as betreen 26-45 years and his wife the same. (Her name has never been learned.) Jacob has 2 sons, 1 of 16-18 years; the other of 16-26 years, Jacob being listed as over 45, with wife of 26-45. (*The catagory "males 16-18" is normally an "pverlapping" one, not to be totalled. In that case, the male 16-18 is the same person listed in the catagory "16-26." But sometimes the census-takers overlooked this distinction and this may be one of those times. From other sources we know Jacob had two sons fitting into these groups.

In the 1830 Census, Isaac Hollingsworth is listed in Copiah County, Mississippi. His brother Jacob's son Isaac is listed there also, and, to distinguish the two, they are called "Senior" & "Junior!" (See REGISTER, Sept., 1966, page 113.)

On Dec. 30, 1835, at the Land Office at Augusta, Miss., Isaac made cash payment of $377.13 for a lot containing 301 & 71/100 acres, situated in Neshoba (now Newton) County. (Legal Description: "S.W. Quarter; E. Half, N.W. & N.E. Quarter, Section 13, Township 7, Range 11.") He paid the rate of $1.25 per acre. This file is available at the National Archives, Washington. In the file also is a Patent, (signed by President Martin Van Buren) dated Jan. 5, 1841, for the West half of Section 11, Twp. 7, Range 11 East, 80 acres. This made a total of 381 & 71/100 acres. The larger tract, also Patented under same date, was re-recorded (Certificate # 3091) at Newton County Courthouse 15 January, 1883, after the fire. On 28 October, 1850, Isaac Hollingsworth sold to Samuel Herd (both of Newton County, Miss.) for the sum of $453.00, 151 acres of this, being "East half of the North West Quarter & West Half of the North East Quarter of Section 13, Township 7, Range 11." to hold forever, etc. If he sold any other sections of his land, we may never know, it usually being up to the Grantee to make the recordings, and in this case, to re-record them after the 1876 fire. We assume, then, that he retained about 230 acres as his own plantation.

As for Isaac's wife: It is evident that she died between about 1825 and 1829, in Copiah County, Mississippi, somewhere between the ages of 31-50 years, judging that she was counted "26-45" in the 1820 census. She was probably nearer to 45. None of her large group of living descendants remembers her name. Likewise, no complete record of the names of Isaac's children has been made available. Nevertheless, a good list appears at the conclusion here.

A fire at the home of Rev. Salathiel Morris Hollingsworth, a grandson, which took place about 1953, destroyed that man's records of his forebears, as well as those added by his daughter, Miss Maggie Hollingsworth. The collection contained photographs, books and trunks of diaries! But Miss Maggie is still living and has reconstructed from memory and with the help of her niece Mrs. Jane Brent of Raymond, Miss., much of what was lost. (Brava, Aunt Maggie!) Mrs. Brent is to be thanked for most of our own information. In his diary, Rev. S.M. Hollingsworth named Isaac & Jacob Hollingsworth as brothers and mentioned a third brother, Abraham. (Jacob died in 1852 in Madison County; see a later article for information.) Salathiel was born in 1837 and lived to be almost 86. He, therefore, was nearly thirty when his grandfather, Isaac, died in 1866: Miss Maggie was over forty when Rev. S. M. Hollingsworth died. We, therefore, have these three overlapping lives as a source of the best evidence we might hope to obtain about the family. (Per letters Apr. 12 & May 2, 1965 from Mrs. J. F. Brent, Raymond, Miss.) Now we present a tentative chart of the names of the children of Isaac Hollingsworth of Newton County, Mississippi. We invite documented corrections!

Thomas Hollingsworth the Pirate!!

A lot of people live in fear that some well-meaning ancestor-hunter in their family, will some day find the "horse-thief" of the clan! Your editor has found the Pirate in the Hollingsworth clan! (Run for cover, and for shame!) This fellow was a bona fide water-bourne highwayman of the late 17th Century, a contemporary of, and perhaps an acquaintance of, the infamous Captain Kidd! At least, they both were on the high seas at the same time in the same dirty business. Old England didn't frown on their business quite like the French, or others, who seemed to be their target; however.

In the Calendar of (British) State Papers, Colonial, America & West Indies, Volume containing correspondence, etc., for the years 1696 & 1697, (Huntington Library, San Marino, Calif.) we find the scurrilous reports: (p. 259 et seq.)

"East India House # 517. Secretary to the East India Company to William Popple. Forwarding certain documents respecting certain ports in America from which the ships concerned in the late piracies in the Red Sea were set forth. (signed) Ro. Blackborne (Endorsed) Dec. 18, 1696. Annexed: (517 i) T. South to the Lords Justices of Ireland. Dublin, 15 August, 1696. The best place to send shipping to meet the pirates is to Fernando, an island in latitude 30 or 40, there they must touch to tater in Feb., or March. The owners of Cart. Wake's ship live in Boston, New England, and were going in a brigantine to bring clothes and necessities to meet him at Fernando; but hearing that we were coming to Providence they followed us thither but did not arrive till after we came away. THOMAS HOLLINGSWORTH now sailed from Galway will meet Wake at Frovidence, where Wake will certainly be within six or eight weeks, or else not till after Christmas. HOLLINGSWORTH left money for Governor Trott. Wake had already had a pardon for piracy in King James's time... All the ships that are now out (except Tew, from New York & Want, from Carolina), are from New England. They build their ships in New England..."

(517 iii - ibid) "Narrative of Philip Middleton, of the Ship Charles Henry, to the Lords Justices of Ireland, given on 4 August, 1696 (he himself a pirate - Ed.) ... another sloop commanded by HOLLINGSWORTH was chased into Dublin by a French Privateer. She had 16 more of the crew of the Charles Henry aboard.

(Ibid, Volume for 1700. Page 277, citation # 466 xi) "Examination (dated March 25, 1700) of James Brown who sailed from Rhode Island in 1695 on the Susanna, Thomas Wake, Commander, as a privateer with a Commission from the Governor or Deputy Governor. The company were all upon shares. In the seas of India they met with the Phancy, Henry Every, Commanding, the plundered the Susanna. Examinant being weary of being aboard in those parts, with one Capt. Smithsend, and THOMAS HOLLINGUOFTH (sic), embarked on the Phancy, which was then designed for Providence." (NOTE: Captain Kidd is referred to in the same group of papers.)

(Ibid, Page 417, cit. # 636 ii) "Copy of a Deposition of Sampson Pendley, Master of the Mayflower of Boston, In 1696 he heard Daniel Smith, Filliam & Benjamin Griffin, THOMAS HOLLINGSWORTH, Mincks, Anthony Packer & Thomas Joy, several times declare that they came to Providence in the Fancy with Henry Avery (sic) the Pirate." Dated July 12, 1700 at Bermuda.

Well, that is the extent of the record available to us. This writer has not seen any extraneous matter on this man. Obviously he is not the Thomas Hollingsworth, son to Valentine the Quaker, and surely not the Thomas Hollingworth of London, also a Quaker of the same period! Some records of Providence, Rhode Island, Boston or the Royal Navy, may give more about this man. "Hollingsworth" may have been a pseudonym, but this suggestion is doubtful. It would be a highly unusual alias to take.

The fact that Ireland, and the cities of Galway and Dublin, are involved here, adds a glow to another spark of our memory: Refer, please, to HOLLINGSTORTH REGISTER, Vol. 1, No. 1, April, 1965, page 48, under the heading, "The Spottiswoode Fortune." There, you will read the story of a "sailor" or mariner, named "John Hollingsworth," who plichted his troth to the only daughter and heir of "Lord Spottiswoode," supposedly a Peer in East India a long time ago. John and Eleanor Spottismoode ran off (against her father's express command) and married. The old man cut them off from his huge fortune, but set clauses in his vill whereby those "of the 7th generation afterward" could collect the money, etc., etc... Now, this story is a popular tale among the Hollingsworths of today, in Dublin and the County Wicklow. But few, if any, take any stock in it, least of all, your editor. There apparently vere just "no such people." Certainly no "Lord Spottis code", a Peer or any other kind of a gentleman, in any meriod who fits this description, has been found. But sudden discovery of this THOMAS HOLLINGSWORTH, Pirate, is the nearest to any of the details we have vet come, and here is why: -

PAGE 8. HOLLINGSWORTH REGISTER, Vol. 3. No. 1. MARCH, 1967.

The Legend of the Spottiswoode affair is varied by the different members of the families of the County Wicklow or County Wexford Hollingsworths who remember it. Perhaps it is varied again, each time it is retold! But one variation says that "The first Hollingsworth who came to Ireland came from America. ... Add to this the legend that he was a mariner or sailor, but not one of any class standing! Could he have been this Thomas Hollingsworth? Could he have returned to Arklow, County Wicklow, Ireland, settled down and raised a family? The reader, now and in the future when this article is reviewed, must realize that this writer is in no way attempting to "start a rumor." This article, sside from the fact of the two separate Hollingsworth references, is not attempting to make Fig fact out of a fancy or a tradition! This should be remembered.

Apklow has been a haven for mariners and involved in a maritime industry for centuries. At least four Hollingsworths were ship's captains, owning their own vessels, or mariners, out of that seacoast village-port, in the mineteenth century, and descendants co-latteral are still in the business there and in Dublin and Wicklow today! Arklow was the home - the Parish, Manor or Lordship thereofof the Hollingsworths from at least 1750 as shown by deeds registered at Dublin. (See REGISTER, Vol. 2, No. 2, page 71, #1289491)
They were Gentlemen Farmers in Cronelusk, a townland just south of Arklow town, about one mile. The mountains called Big Arklow Rock and Little Arklow Rock are in that neighbourhood, and the Arklow Lightship, once commanded by a grandson of one of these Hollingsvorths, is off that coast, in St. George's Channel. The countryside near that place is described as the most beautiful in all Ireland. It is about forty miles south of Dublin.

Proper

This writer is certain that the family at Cronlush (sic) in the early eighteenth century, was the original "planting," from which his own branch at Ballycanew, Co Wexford, grew, starting in 1746 then John Hollinsworth, Sr. (1713-1791) made his first lease of the farm called Ballinakill. (REGISTER, July, 1965 p. 60 # 8, Reg. # 105099.) John was one of three known brothers, the others being Samuel of Coolookbeg, Co Wexford, and William of Cronelusk, Arklow, Co Wicklow (1724-1808). The original lease for Cronelusk has never been found. (This writer has been looking for it for two years and it appears never to have been recorded.) But we know from later deeds that it was for the lives of William Hollinsworth and of his brother Samuel. The implication here is that there was a third party omitted in this recital. Land tenure for lives was usually for three lives: A man, his two sons, or a man, his brother and his son, or his wife and his brother, etc. Perhaps one of the "lives" had literally expired. The land was paying a yearly rent of L11.0. 6d, according to the Head-Rent deed cited 128949, a detail left out in our other article above alluded to.

We have no idea of any great implication, about the name of the father of these three men, John, Samuel & Villiam. But one other Hollingsworth was named, in connection with this land. What was his Christian name? Why, THOMAS, of course! He had possession of the lands of Cronelusk as of March 26, 1765, as shown in our July, 1965, issue, page 60, No. 10, Registration 157152. This is the only reference to him we have! Was he the "third life" in the lease? Was he the father of the others? Was he the Pirate? "You tell us! Have other members of the family put the lid on this story before?

FREDERICK HOLLINGSWORTH'S FARM

Last issue we published the grand news of the discovery of our Wexford Emigrant Ancestor's arrival in New York on the Brig William, July 20, 1829. Since then we found more details about his Illinois farms! (Per letter, Jan. 20, 1967, from the State Archives, Spring-field, Illinois.)

- (1) 1850 U.S. Census, Schedule 3, Agricultural Statistics. (To n of Butler later called Cherry Valley Township Winnebago Courty, Illinois, page 755, line 31.)
- "FREDERICK HOLLINGSWORTH. 123 acres of land unimproved*; 72 acres improved. Cash value of farm: $2,000.00. Value of farming implements: $150.00. LIVESTOCK: 2 horses; 4 Milk cows; 6 other cattle; 50 sheep; 9 svine; Value of Livestock: $302.00. PRODUCE: 300 bushels of wheat (annually); 100 bushels of Indian corn (annually); 150 bushels of oats (annually)."
- (* This reading may be "128 acres unimproved." That complies better with deeds in this rriter's possession, which show that he had 200 acres in all.)
- (New Milford Township, Vinnebago Co., Illinois, page 57, line 22.)
  "HOLLINGSWORTH, FREDERICK. 180 acres of land improved; 13 acres unimproved. Cash value of farm: $3,700.00. Value of farming implements: $220.00. LIVESTOCK: 3 horses; 5 cows; 4 other cattle; 3 swine; Value of livestock: $329.00. PRODUCE: 400 bushels of wheat (for census year expiring June 1, 1860); 500 bushels of corn; 300 bushels of pats."

In a rrevious REGISTER re expressed the wish that our own U.S. Census could be as detailed as the Canadian! Lo and behold: it is! The trouble is, these Schedules, like the Mortality Schedules (lists of all members of all families who had died in the 12 months before the census years, 1850; 1860, 1870, 1880), were not filmed with the Population Schedules by the National Archives! These schedules have been returned by the U.S. government to the ownership of the several states. The Illinois Schedules are at Springfield, as can be seen. Those for the state of Io a are at the Historical Society, Centenniel Bldg., Iowa City. Only the Census of 1870 for part of the state of Minnesota, Counties whose names begin with "A-S", was filmed with the other 2 schedules, Mortality and Agricultural, and these were bought from the Minnesota Historical Society by the National Archives to fill the gap caused by the loss of the Federal copies. Seeing these, the writer immediately knew the course ahead of him, and the above is the result. Frederick Hollingsworth obtained his first farm in Cherry Valley in 1837, from the wild state. To this he added a 40 acre tract, and sold the entire 200 acres in 1856. He then purchased his 193 acre farm on Section 28 in New Milford Township, from John Edwards. It may readily appear it was a well improved farm and of consequently greater value than the other. Such a find, although of little genealegical value, gives us a taste of reality to be sure.

This completes the search of the regular deeds, from 1785-1875. It is to be regretted that, while much information about certain families of Hollings orths (as located, not enough about others was.

To complete our presentation of all Land Records for this important Hollingsworth county or district, (before going on to present the Probates, Equity Court Records, and a few miscellaneous other items in our next issue) we turn to the following book:

- "Old Record Book No. 2" 96 District, Union County, South Carolina. (Feriod covered; 1785-1800) Some Wills, Deeds, etc.
- (81) p. 81. "I, WILLIAM FARR, State of South Carolina, Union County, to ELIAS HOLLINGSWORTH, Esqr., of Newberry County, S.C." Sum: L2. Sterling. 99 acres on south side of Broad River part of larger tract granted to Thomas Tramel by Lord Charles G. Montague, in Nov., 1764. Witnesses: Bernard Glen, Joseph Coleman (see No. 78), Henry Bales. Dated Nov. 10, 1789.
- (82) p. 87. ELIAS HOLLINGSWORTH, Esqr., of Newberry County, to Wm. Farr, Union County. Sum: L20. Sterling. 46 acres in Union Co., part of a tract granted to William Love by Governor Matthew Royan of North Carolina; in 1753. Same witnesses. Dated 10 Nov., 1789. Recorded March 24, 1790.
- (83) p. 214. We do give all our rights to a tract of land, 100 acres that did belong to Magnus Simonson, dec., on Fishdam ford, adjoining JOSEPH HOLLINGSWORTH's land. to (Simonson's) four voungest children, Magnus, Grace, Marv & Nancv, agreeable to their father's vill. (84) p. 54. ELIAS HOLLINGSWORTH, a witness to a bond of David Hopkins, dated Sept. 12, 1788; Recorded Dec. 30, 1789.

NOTE on No. 83: The Index to this item reads: "BISHOP, Jas. & others To the Heirs of Jos Hollingsworth, page 214." This is clearly an error. The contents of this old deed compared with the Last Will of Magnus Simonson (to be published here later) show that these people signing were all the heirs and children and grandchildren of this man. Mary Hollingsworth was one of his daughters. We do not know her husband's name.

JOHN & CATHERINE (TYLER) HOLLINGSWORTH (Part One)

Here we propose to give the documentation on this couple from the earliest records we have found. We have already given many of the details and invite the readers to consult the REGISTER, Vol 1, p. 82, 83; 184 et seq.; Vol. 2, p. 4; 142 et seq.

John Hollingsworth's birth is recorded in the Book of Births & Deaths of Newarl (Kenmett) Monthly Meeting of Friends, Penna./Delaware, page 377:

John the son of Vollintin and Ann Hollingsworth was born the 19/th of the 2d month 1684."

The next entry about John is the Request in the Minutes of the same meeting, and in the Minutes of Salem Monthly Meeting in New Jersey, dated in Newark Meeting Book 2.1.1705/6, for permission to marry Catrin Tyler of Salem Meeting. (She was the daughter of William & Elizabeth Tyler of Alloways Creek, Salem County.) John V. Hollings-worth reports that the records of Newark do not show that they were actually married. There is good possibility they were married in the Quaker faith. But it may be that they went and were married by a "hireling priest" - a Quaker phrase for any minister outside their jurisdiction. At any event they were married.

Next, the writer found trace of them in a book called "Papers of the Historical Society of Delaware - Records of the Welsh Tract Bantist Meeting, Pencader Hundred, New Castle County, Delaware, 1701-1828, in two parts, (1904)." Here are all the references:

Part 1, page 17: "1714 ... Received by letter from Philadelphia, CATH: HOLLINSWORTH."

Pages 18-20: "Signers of the Confession of Faith, Feb. 4, 1716... Quarterly Meeting... CATHORING HOLINSWORTH... (p. 21)...
JOHN HOLINSWORTH... (among others.)"

Page 22: (Same document) "STEPHEN HOLINSWORTH." (This is their son, probably their eldest, who later became the preacher.)

Pages 23-25: "(List of) The names of such as have been removed by death... 1722, 6th month (i.e. August - Ed.) JOHN HOLINS-WORTH."

Page 27: "(Removed to other meeting houses for good reasons):
"KATH: HOLLINSWORTH to the Philadelphia Meeting House, 1722...
STEPHEN/HOLLINSWORTH to the same, January 7, 1727..."

HOLLINGSWORTH REGISTER, Vol. 3, No. 1. MARCH, 1967, PAGE 15.

As for information about where John & Catherine Hollingsworth lived between the time of their marriage (1706) and when they moved nearer to the Welsh Bartist meeting house, or when they moved to Philadelphia, (the exact facts about this move not being clear,) we have only one item:

"An Address from Inhabitants of Salem to Governor Hunterrelative to the payment of taxes and the election of new Representatives for that County. (From P.R.O.B.T., New Jersey, Vol. I, C. 108.) TO his Excy Robert Hunter Esqr Capt. Generall and Govr in Cheife of ye province of New Jersey New York &c -

The petition is dated at "Salem (New Jersev) May ye 25th anno Domini 1711. It is a petition of 262 of the "Inhabitants of ye County of Salem." One item in the document asks that the taxes be allowed to be paid in wheat, "Silver money being Extreamly Scarse." and the other is for a grant of a new choice for Representatives for the County. The signatures:

> JOHN HOLLINGSVORTH Thomas Wright Jacob Hendrixson Benjamin Jones Jeremiah Smith John "** Lovd (his mark) William short

Roger Huchings Isaac Pearson Samll Wade Joseph Ware Jonathan Smith

"and to hundred and ffifty persons more Recd: 10 April wth Coll: Hunters Lre: of the 1º Janu: 1711/12

This item is printed in the First Series, Volume IV. of New Jersey Archives, and the writer saw it also in a volume (1711) of Calendar of (British) State Papers, Colonial, America & West Indies. There can be very little doubt that this is the same man we are dealing with, the son of Valentine and the father of Rev. Stephen.

Three years later Catherine was presenting a letter to the New Castle Co., Del. Baptist Meeting, from the Philadelphia Meeting. (We do not know if minutes for the latter are preserved.) After the death of John Hollingsworth at the age of 38 the widow and small children seem to have remained in the vicinity. See REGISTER, Vol. 2 No. 1, page 6 for mention of the Administration of John's estate by the vidov and brother (Samuel Hollingsworth) in Chester County, Pennsylvania. The case was opened in Sept., 1722 and extended to 1721. After his death Catherine almost immediately went back to the Philadelphia Meeting of Baptists. Her son Stephen, (almost without doubt the oldest child) followed her in 1727. Then what became of the family until they landed in North Carolina on Cape Fear River?

Two deeds answer this question. They are on file in the Record books at the Hall of Records, Annapolis, Marvland.

(1) "Indenture made the 27 ffebruary 1730, Between CATHERINE HOLLANDSVORTH of Baltimore County in the Province of Maryland Spinster of the one part AND STEPHEN HOLLANDSWORTH of the same Province and County Gent. of the other part... Recites that Catherine Hollandsworth took up a lot under date 1 Aug., 1729, in the Ton of Joppa, lot # 29 etc. on High Street, Joppa, Baltimore County. Recites further that she built (a dwelling) on this lot in pursuance of an Act of Assembly for erecting the with the state of the state of a. 医结合性 (*) town of Joppa. For the sum of Thirty Pounds Current of the Province of Maryland, she sold, bargained, etc. to said STEPHEN HOLLANDSWORTH. Catherine signed, with Thomas & Walter Jollev as witnesses. Acknowledged by her, and recorded April 15, 1731, in Liber IS No. L, folios 66, 67.

(2) Indenture dated Nov. 25, 1731, between STEPHEN HOLLINGSWORTH of the Town of Joppa in the County of Baltimore and province of Marvland, Cordwinder and Baltimore and province of Mailland, Farmer of the one part and JOHN HIGGINSON of the same place of the other part etc. Recites Catherine Hollingsworth's having taken up Lot. # 29 etc., and its ingsworth's having taken up Lot. # 29 etc., and its legal bounds, and that she had built "a house" on the lot and then conveved all to said STEPHEN HOLLINGS-WORTH 27 Feb., 1730. Now said Stephen sells said lot for sum of Fifty-seven Pounds; fifteen shillings Current money... Signed by Stephen Hollingsworth, with Richd. Burrough and Nicholas Day, witnesses. Acknowledged in Court by said Stephen Hollingsworth on 28 Nov., 1731, Recorded Dec. 18, 1731, in Liber IS No. L, folios 179-181.

Sharf's History of Baltimore City & County, (1884) mentions a deed from "Catherine Hollingsworth, widow, to her son, Valentine Hollings orth " in the Town of Joppa. The writer found this item and wrote to the Annapolis Archives to obtain a copy, whereupon, he was then advised that no such deed was found! (?) But the above two indentures were located. It is evident Mr. Sharf did not have an hallucination, because we know that Catherine did have a son named Valentine. But we did not want to weary the Clerk at the Archives by our insistances! Maybe later.

Indian Con Sept. 11, 1735 Catherine Edwards & Stephen Hollingsworth obtained Grants to lands on North West Branch of Came Fear River, in Bladen County, North Carolina. (See REGISTER, Vol. 2, No. 4, p. 143.) Thus in the period, 1731-1735, Catherine had re-married a Mr. Edwards, who evidently had died in the same interim, by whom she had a son, Robert Edwards.

The Tax Assessment Roll, year 1763, for Bladen County, North Carolina, lists (among many others):

Hollingsworth, John 1 white poll Samuel (with Robert Edwards) 2 wh. polls

"Stephen 1 white poll."

(For the entire list see "North Carolinian," (magazine) Vol II.,

The above Samuel was not the see but a grander of John 2

The above Samuel was not the son, but a grandson, of John & Catherine, Samuel the son died in Craven County, South Carolina, on Pée Dee River, in the Welsh Tract, in 1753. He received three Grants for land there (1) 29 Nov. 1750, for 145 acres; (2) same date, for 155 acres; (3) 13 Mar., 1752 for 150 acres. (Per letter Sent. 14, 1965, South Carolina Archives Dopt. 1430 Senate, Columbia, S.C., in Fre-Revolutionary Grants, Vol. 4, pp. 297, 312, 592.) In the next issue we will deal with this Samuel, his will, and his offspring. issue we will deal with this Samuel, his will, and his offspring.

HOLLINGSWORTHS IN THE U.S. CENSUS OF 1840 - PART ONE

We refer our researchers to the REGISTER, Sept., 1966, (Vol 2), pages 110, 111, for an explanation of the catagories employed in the census enumerations of 1830 and 1840. The only change in 1840 was that no record of "Aliens, foreigners not naturalized" was kept and unlike 1830, a list of all Revolutionary Schliers who had pensions was made. Because neither of these items alters our scheme, we present our tables exactly as in the September 1966 issue.

With the Constitution of Correction!

In our July, 1965 REGISTER, pp. 62A, 62B, we published the muster roll of Co Armagh, Ireland, 1631, showing the name of "Henry Hollinwort" (our interpretation) on Cope's estate. (Father of Valentine.) In studying old English script, we have learned that the particular combination "th" was often abbreviated (as in the pords "with "wt") thusly. The correction is (p.62B) "Henry Hollinworth."

NOTE: From the U.S. Consus of 1830, (REGISTER, Sept. 1966 p. 114) it appears this Stephen is the one there listed in Sampson County, page 170, with 5 slaves, and a family of wife and 5 children. This might be a third Stephen! Stephen the Revolutionary Soldier, son of John, may perhaps be the man in Cumberland County, same year. (Ibid) He called himself "Senior" in his Pension claim. The U.S. Census of East Division of CUMBERLAND COUNTY, N.C., 1850, page 64, lines 2-5, 25 Sept., 1850, list:

1031-1044 MARY HOLLINGSWORTH, 45, $400. North Carolina Alexander 16 lab. Do. Isabella 14 Do. Augustus 12 Do.

This supports our theory. But it indicates that this family was in Sampson Co in 1830; in Bladen in 1840 and in Cumberland in 1850!

FREDERICK HOLLINGSWORTH FAMILY - GENERATION THREE

Nettie May (Hollingsworth) Stinson

Nettie May (Hollingsworth) Stinson, 3rd child & eldest daughter of Eduard Earl? & Rachel (McFadden) Hollingsworth, was born Nov. 14, 1865, New Milford township, Winnebago County, Illinois; Died Nov. 5, 1901, in Los Angeles, California, aced 35 years, 11 months, 22 days; Buried next to her father in Rosedale Cemetery. (A piece of simple flagstone marks the grave.)

She married (1) Oct. 7, 1885, Chicago, Cook Co., Illinois, RICHARD GIBBONS, son of William & Margaret (Gibbson) Gibbons, natives of England. (He was born in 1862 in England: died Oct. 13, 1914, at 10:05 p.m. in Los Angeles, of cancer of the stemach, aged years. Cremated and inurned at Rosedale Cemetery.

No issue by this marriage. (Divorced Oct. 20, 1893 Los Argeles #20246.)

She married (2) Nov. 20, 1893, Los Angeles, FENELON ANTHONY STINSON, parents unknown. He was born about 1857 in Ohio, and nothing ever was known or heard of him after his wife's death in 1901. It is believed he perished in the great earthquake & fire of San Francisco in 1906. - Family tradition. NO ISSUE.

Mfter her marents were divorced, Netty, the oldest of the 5 Hollingsworth girls, became a second mother to her vounger brothers and sisters, and housekeeper both for her mother and her father, at differ nt times until they came to Los Angeles. Mr. Gibbons was a motorman on the local city transportation system until his death. He did not re-marry, after his divorce. Fenelon A. Stinson was a clerk and bookkeeper in Los Angeles from at least 1885. He later was employed as clerk for Cass and Smurr Stove Company, 155 North Newhall Street, Los Angeles. Nettie May Stinson worked as a seamstress and was always host to her beloved family, including nicces & nepheys. She bastowed the name of Fenelon Anthony Hollingsworth, on her brother Fred's son; such was the esteem she was held in by him. She loved fishing as a hobby:

Stricken with a complaint similar to Asthma (a malady which pops up in this line) she was taken away from life at the age of thirty six years. Her father, Edward, attended the funeral, and such was his grief, it is said, that he suffered a naralytic stroke a few days later, and died within 5 months.

"Aunt Nettie," though dead over sixty years, is still fondly remembered by those who knew her. The editor's father, Harry, used to look forward to visiting her, seeing her boultry ward, and enjoying her good cooking!

No physical description of Nettie Mav Stinson is available, outside of two portraits of her; one a tin type taken about 1885 with her father's derby hat on her head, with her sister Annie on their vay to Kellogg, Iowa, to visit their grandmother Hollings—worth and sister Lucy; the other a cabinet photo taken in Los Angeles in the early 1890's. She was taller than Annie, when the latter reached maturity. Nettie had rather heavy evebrows and beautiful hair, very elegantly arranged for that portrait. Being, like Annie, a seamstress, we are assuming she wore her own sumptuous creations in the taffeta, ruffles and pleats of that day.

The editor owns copies of a number of unidentified tin types and later pictures, but is unable to say if any of them are portraits of either Richard Gibbons or F. A. Stinson, Nettie's husbands.

REFERENCES will be published with next segment.

AN ADDITION TO 1830 U.S. CENSUS of HOLLINGSWORTH FAMILIES:

The REGISTER, Sept., 1966, Vol. 2, p. 111-116 attempted to publish all Holling(s) worth Heads of families in the United States in one edition. (We didn't think we'd succeed!) Already in Dec. issue we published one addition. The following may not be a true Hollingsworth family, but if it is, it may explain John Hollingsworth family in Passaic County, 1850, published in this issue:

NEW JERSEY: (1830) (5 rolls of film; 4,766 pages of manuscript.)

1. JOSEPH (Honingsworth 0123620000000-0010010100000 4 aliens.

or Horringsworth?) Page 281, Township of Newark, Essex

County. (No others in entire state.)

NOTE: This may be the man listed in Newark in 1850, who came from Scotland. If it is, he hardly was the father of John in Passaic County, born about 1803 in New Jersey, for reasons both of age & place of birth! Since we cannot account for this Scot anywhere else, and since he is listed in Newark in 1840, 1950 and 1860, the above must be him. It is even possible that our Frederick Hollingsworth was residing there along with three other aliens, one of whom was surely Joseph himself. This latter statement is purely speculation. This raises 1830 Heads of Families to 268; Pop.:1,620!

- (40) ANNE GAINFORT, Cranacrower, Ballvcanew Parish, Co Wexford.
  In Principal Probate Registry, 1899. (Original & all copies perished in 1922.) She was Anne HOLLINGSWORTH, daughter of JOHN & ESTHER (HOLLINGSWORTH) HOLLINGSWORTH of Cranacrower.

She was Administratrix of her mother's Estate in 1868. Her sister, Charlotte James, wife of William James, went to America before the death of her father in 1863 at Cranacrower. We do not know if by "America" British America (Canada) or the United States was meant. But about 1900 it was reported in a letter circulated among the Hollingsworths of Leeds County, Ontario, Canada, that the Solicitors were seeking the heirs of Anne Gainfort, including Charlotte (Hollingsworth) James. (Above Ref. per letter Feb. 15, 1967, Four Courts, Dublin, Ire.)

RATHFRYLAND FAMILY III. (From Wol. 2, p. 125.)

John NEWELL, Sr., ancestor of this line (father of Elizabeth, ife of HENRY HOLLIN(S) WORTH, King Hill, Clonduff Parish, Co Down,) was patented as one of the six Clerks of the High Court of Chancerv in the Kingdom of Ireland by patent dated 4 July, 1676. Nothing is known of his place of birth, England or Ireland. This reference is found in Liber Munerum, (II, p. 23) in State Paper Office, The Castle, Dublin (Letter 29 Sept., 1966.) He was obviously an adult with a better-than-average education; which places his birth, we think, before 1650. His son in law, Henry Hollinsworth, Gent., certainly was his junior in age.

O'Hart's "Irish Pedigrees" published the Civil List, Ireland, 1689, and this writer obtained a Kerox copy of the original list, from Trinity College, Dublin, the library. Under "CHANCERY," it lists: "JO: NEVELL & JO: MAYNARD, 2 Protestants, Kept in because*ye rest knew not how to doe yr buisnesse." (* O'Hart printed an erroneous word "breanse" for the word "because," not understanding the Script - evidently!) To explain: John Newell, Gent, was appointed Clerk during the reign of Charles II. a Protestant tenure; but this Civil List was made during the final year of the reign of James II., a Roman Catholic controlled regime. We see that the King was not above retaining officials for whom there simply were no substitutes! Happily, Newell retained his status until death took him in 1692. The unhappy end of James Stuart had come in July, 1690, just outside Dublin - at least, the end of his unhappy regime. (See IRISH FEDI-GREES, (Edition of 1916) Volume II. page 611.)

Alexander Knox, in his "A History of the County of Down," (1875) page 365, remarks: "About equidistant from Hilltown & Rathfriland is King Hill, a family residence situate on the estate of Mrs. Frances Nevell Barron of Dublin, and of Marlfield in the County of Wexford. (NOTE: This rriter's ancestors, the Earl family, lived on farms surrounding said Marlfield House, Gorey, Co Wexford, and the house is still standing, the present summer residence of the Earl of Courtown, descendant of the Courtown who leased their farms to them. Ed.) On this property there is a fort, having undermeath, one of these remarkable caves before adverted to. There also is an ancient cemetery in the townland of King Hill. (Alias Kinkell - Ed.) The Newell family is of English lineage. The great grandfather of Mrs. Baron (sic) was a governor of the County of Down, and died in the old castle of Newcastle which stood on an estate which he possessed there. The father of this gentleman, Mr. John Newell, was one of the six-clerks in the Irish Court of Chancery and the family have now been more than 200 years extensive landed proprietors in this county and formerly owners of estates in Armagh also. The father of Mrs. Barron a Commander in the British Navy, was a magistrate and Deputy Governor of the County of Down, and his property after the death of Mrs. Barron descends to her only son who takes the name of Newell. The Nevells have the arms and crest of the NEVILLES of Essex, the "v" & "w" being often written interchangeably in Old English. I should here opine that I am much indebted to Mrs. Barron for the information coming to me on several points."

The Parish where King Hill House is located is "Clonduff," or "Clanduffe", meaning "The Meadow of the Ox," from the Gaelic words Cluain Daimh.

On Dec. 14, 1965 this writer wrote a letter to "The Present Proprietor" of King Hill House, hoping to get in touch with today's representatives of this old family, thereby to learn more about the HOLLINGSWORTHS! A reply came, arriving here 23 Feb., 1967. The writer is Bernard McPolin, Kinghill, Cabra P.O., Newry, Co Down. He stated in part: "The Newell family is long since extinct in these parts. A Mr. Barron married the only daughter of the last of the male line about a century ago. The Barron family held on to the Kinghill property till about 1930 when it was purchased by my late father...there are no records in my possession which would throw any light on the matter. Neither is there any local tradition which would help. Yours faithfully, /s/ Bernard McPolin." (A Dead-End!) We will try to find the Barrons elsewhere.

The statement in Knox's book about the Newells holding lands in Co. Armagh is significant. Henry Hollinsworth, Newell's son-in-law, was living at "Tymore "(Teemore) in Mullaghbrack Farish, near the village of Markethill, in 1710, as was John Newell, Junior! They all moved to Clonduff in that year and the Hollingsworths, at least, are there to this day!

The following Registered Memorial of a Will, Vol. 272, page 579, # 176552, Registry of Deeds, Henrietta St., Dublin, is of peculiar interest:

"Last Will & Tostament of JOHN NEWELL, Kinkell, Co. Down, Gent. Dated 3 July; registered 4 July, 1769 - (i.e. by the testator himself, John Newell, to insure against any fraud as shown further - Ed.) Bequeaths the Town and lands of Kinkell (Alias King Hill - Ed.) and corn mill and kiln thereon and residence etc., to his daughter ELIZABETH COWAN orse NEWELL. Her eldest son, JOHN COWAN. His granddaughter MARY COWAN. Granddaughter MARGARET CCWAN. To his son GEORGE NEWELL, six shillings and no more. The person inheriting his estate is to take the surname of NEWELL. His two sons in law, JOSEPH COWAN & DAVID CUMING, exacutors. Witnesses: Robert Wallace, Nevry, Gt., and David Richardson of same, Gent, Wm. Rankin, Newry, shoemak-Signed and sealed by John Newell the testator and Elizabeth Gowan, with seals, in presence of Robert Wallace & David Richardson. (See also: EUSTACE, Registry of Deeds, Abstracts of Wills, Vol. 2, p. 213.)

What ho! Mrs. Barron's father was NOT the last of the male line! The above man, a son or grandson of the Clerk, was the last. The above will shows clearly that he cut off his only son with six shillings! The estates of King Hill descended thence to his daughter Elizabeth Cowan and to her eldest son, or heir, John Cowan. In the event that said John Cowan lived to take possession, he was obliged to take also the surname of NEVELL! This man would have been the grandfather of Mrs. Barron. (We are speculating, not having any other information.) The Hollingsworths lived at Kinkell from 1710 on a 99 year lease. They still held the lands as of 1764, but moved to Caven, a nearby townland, about 1812. The above John Newell made a new, smaller lease to these Hollingsworths in 1765. (REGISTER, Vol 1, p. 60; also see p. 62.) It may appear later that above George Newell obtained title to his father's estates.

This writer has yet to find any confirmation of any Grant of Arms to this particular Newell family, or of their holding those of the Nevilles of Essex, England. Boyd's Marriage Index, Essex, shows many families of both spollings dwelling there in the 16th & 17th centuries. No way to tell which one of them was that of the King Hill family. But an education and position and rank as held by John

Merell Gent., as well as his estates, definitely imply that his ancestors were of similar rank, wherever they lived. The 1666/67 Hearth Tax for the Parish of St. Catherine's, Dublin, lists a Widder Newell, with seven hearths paying XIIIj S. She had to be wealthy to own a mansion with so many fireplaces! Other Newells were in the city in other parishes. (Parish Register Society of Dublin.)

After the lease, 1812, of the lands of Cavan, Clonduff, Co Down, to James Hollinsworth, this writer has found no other leases of any significance until after 1880. The answer is probably that, after about 1840 in Ireland, the "Lease for Lives" became unpopular and was replaced by the yearly lease. Leases for less than three years were not liable to be registered at Dublin. This will explain why the following Tithe Applotment Assessments show the Hollingsworths owning much land, while no deeds were found to match the holdings.

"A DAY OF INFAMY"

This phrase is familiar to Americans. It was used by the President of the United States in his Declaration of War address to Congress, Dec. 8, 1941, in describing the Japanese attack on the port of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii Territory, the previous day. The bulk of the American Navy was destroyed or greatly damaged on that day. By great unanimity, perseverance and labour, the fleet was almost completely restored (with the exception of the irreplaceable human lives that were lost) with the result that Japan lost her part of the war.

Another "day of infamy" was Friday, June 30, 1922, and the place was Dublin City, Ireland. Genealogically speaking, it was a disaster. For as long as "HOLLINGSWORTH REGISTER" has been in publication, you readers have constantly been reminded of the destruction of the Public Record Office in the old Four Courts Building in 1922. This is mandatory in any avenue of Irish record research. No one knows this fact better than this writer, for 6 of his known Immigrant Ancestors, on both sides of his family, paternal and maternal, were born in Ireland and came to the U.S.A. between 1829 and 1856! He is obliged to recognize this loss if he wishes to pursue their lines into the past. But here, we cant to, but briefly, give you readers a better understanding of the scope of the event, from an eve-witness account:

"IRISH REBELS SURRENDER FOUR COURTS AFTER EXPLOSIONS WRECK THE BUILDING. O'CONNOR AND 130 MEN ARE PRISONERS...

DUBLIN, June 30. The rebel garrison in the Four Courts surrendered to the Free State forces at 4 o'clock this afternoon after a day of vigourous fighting culminating in a series of terrific explosions which shook the city of Dublin. The explosions, which are supposed to have been caused by mines set by the rebels, set the historic building after, and at a late hour tonight it was feared that it would collapse.

"At 12:30 o'clock noon as the battle was at its height, a terrific explosion, which shook the centre of the city, took place at the rear of the building. It was the most terrible incident of the fighting. A huge tongue of flame burst forth, followed by an immense cloud of smoke... Mingled with the great dense black clouds of smoke were showers of fragments of legal books and documents which floated in the breeze and eventually fell in various parts of the city and were secured by people as souveniers. The nature of the papers showed that the record office section had been destroyed.

"The second part of the huge building was blown up shortly after 2 o'clock with a repetition of the shock and the havor created by the first explosion. Again, dense clouds of smoke filled the sky and countless pieces of burned legal papers and books were scattered through the air."

In those two blasts, and the ensuing fire, dear reader, not simply 'legal books' (a gross understatement ) were consumed!
All the original Prerogative Wills, 1536-1858 (except eleven), all but a similar handful of the Diocesan (Consistory Court) Wills for the same period also were blasted to Kingdom come. Add to this the vast majority (in many cases all) of original documents in the Hearth Tax, Poll Tax, Subsidy, Census Schedules, 1813-1851; Principal and District Registry Wills, 1858-1921, County Court Records, State Papers, and over 800 original Parish Register Books of the disestablished Church of Ireland (Protestant Episcopal).

Only then one is seeking a specific document or type of record does this terrible loss make its deepest mark on the mind. At first, after seeing the awful destruction, genealogists threw up their hands and announced that genealogy in Ireland was henceforth impossable! Happily, they were exaggerating the case without knowing it. As with the case of the hard work and unanimous determination of the wounded America recouping her forces ultimately to smash the total Axis powers, so with the records of Ireland. Dauntless efforts to replace the records continued for years; are continuing even totally. Nearly every Prerogative Will, 1536-1800, was substituted for by the abstracts by Betham & Burke; other wills survived in copy form and a great call was made from the new Public Record Office in Belfast, Northern Ireland, for copies of documents made in Dublin prior to the fire. A great part of what was thought lost was replaced.

Nevertheless, as with Pearl Harbor, so with the Four Courts:
An irreplaceable quantity of material was destroyed (as in the case of the men killed at Pearl Harbor) for which absolutely no copy existed! Today then one visits the new Four Courts, he may be shown the Index Books and other documents, curled, charred and burned away but still legible in part, as a reminder of that event. The British authorities thought that their intense concentration of records there would avert the danger of loss, and enable searchers to thus see records which hitherto had been deposited in places scattered all over the island. Such a gathering had begun as early as 1871! The timebombs of a few dissenting rabble-rousers, in their "act of vandalism," turned this dream of such an ideal research-room into a charred nightmare of lost history!

whem do we blame? Do not lose sight of the fact that the present Irish Republic was not the same government which by treaty took power in the south of Ireland in 1922. The Free State felt that ties with England must be maintained; the "I.R.A." under Eamon de Valera, were determined to sever all ties, and as soon as the treaty was in effect, they vented their nasty spleens in the battle which is described above. Eventually the Irish Republicans got control and are in power today. The present regime, therefore, must be blamed for the loss of her own ancestral records - ironically - just at the time then separation from England had finally been won! (And also, ironically, on the day before the anniversary of the Battle of the Bovne, "Orangeman's Day" (July 1) commemorating a day hateful to the Irish.) England - (may God Alrighty restore to her her ancient glory and dominion!) - cannot be charged with this offense! "Let the chips fall where they may!" (Contributed by a confirmed Royalist.)

AN OUNCEMENT: Due to a sudden 'change of mind' (and of officials) at Halifax, Nova Scotia, the purchase of more Xerox of Halifax HOLL-INGSWORTH deeds was thwarted most crudely; our money returned! We rement not to be able, as promised, to continue that series. (Vol 2, p 167)

WAS HE THE 'HOLLINGWORTH PRIMEVAL?'

We are always, behind the scene, so to speak, trying to determine whether our ancestors, the Hollingworths - or Hollingsworths -(for those who insist that the spelling doesn't matter though we. think it does) were "pure Anglo-Saxon" or Norman in origin. We check hundreds and hundreds of books on English documents, either by index or page by page, hoping thereby to some day turn up a clue to the truth in this matter. English manuscripts are not in this country. generally speaking, and this writer is not equipped to read the exceeding old English style (or the Latin) even if they were! But societies like the Royal Society of Antiquaries, and the Lancashire & Cheshire Record Society, are constantly publishing extracts, copies and translations of the precious old rolls. In the latter series, which now exceeds 100 volumes, (subscription at Huntington Library, San Marino. California) the writer hit upon what he (and others of more authority) felt may be the earliest example of any person using the surname "HOLLINGWORTH," derived from the place-name! Our title means to imply our immediate reaction to this document: "Can this man be the very first Hollingworth?" Is he the common progenitor of all of the many clans extant and extinct who have trod the corridors of the centuries? (Pedantically putting it.)

John P. Earwaker in his massive 2 volume "East Cheshire, Past & Present," under the heading of "Hollingworth," meaning the town-ship and manor thereof, refers to the two families, both doubtless of common origin, bearing the same name. His own investigations, and those of his predecessor, Mr. Ormerod, who wrote his own magnificent history of Cheshire, turned up a number of deeds, charters & rolls dealing with the land and the family of the same name. Eartaker once refers to "early Godley charters without date." In the Lancashire & Cheshire Record Society Series, one of these charters, has been reproduced and translated, in an unnumbered volume titled "Facsimiles of Early Cheshire Charters," (1957) now most unfortunately out of print. Here is a copy of the translation from the Latin of this document: (page 42)

" # 19. Charter of THOMAS de BURGH granting to ADAM, son of REGINALD the land in Mottram in Longdendale which ALBINUS had held, and two acres of his own pultivation, near to AL-BIMUS'S tenement, retaining, only the suit of his mill." "Hiis Testibus (the witnesses) included ...
"TOMAS De HOLINEWURTHE."

A CONTRACT OF THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF TH

Prof. Geoffry Barraclough, who edited this work, writes an article about the Godley family and deeds, or charters. He says, (in part) "The early history of this district (i.e. Longdendale) or 'territory" (as it is here called), is very obscure. Wild and desolate, it was certainly sparselely populated until the close of the twelfth century (meaning 1199 A.D. - Ed.). At the time of Domesday (circa 1085) it was largely in the Earl's own hands, and the neighbourhood there is described as waste. Thereafter, apart from a reference in the pipe-roll of 1158, it recurs in subsequent years, but always under Derbyshire, and evidently relates to the head of the valley, beyond the Cheshire border. Nothing appears to be known of 1.

Longdendale for a century. We shall probably not be far wrong in assuming that there was little to be known."

The professor then comes to the subject of the above described document:

"Longdendale reappears in the light of history in two charters, one of earl Hugh, and the other of his son, earl Ranulph Blundeville, in which it is granted to William Neville and his wife Amabilis (or, Mabel), and the heirs of their bodies ... These charters, as they stand, are not above suspicion; but the grant itself is not in doubt. William, who also held land near Oldham, on the Lancashire side of the border of Longdendale, died before Easter, 1211, and was succeeded by Thomas de Burgh, who had married his daughter and heiress, Sarah. This Thomas, without doubt, is the one mentioned in the present charters. According to a padigree in Watson's MSS. in the Bodlean Library, he had previously, in the time of Richard T., married Adeliza, (or, Alice), the daughter of Thomas of Newton.

"The position thus established would therefore seem to be that Thomas de Burgh held Longdendale directly from the earl of Chester, but Newton mediately of Hamon de Massey ... The first of the Godlev charters is a grant of land in 'the territory of Mottram' by Thomas de Burgh to Adam son of Reginald, witnessed among others by Robert son of dam... (the professor then goes on to describe two others of these Godley charters, and to explain the pedigrees which might be established from the facts set forth in them. Our next quote is important as an example for us in seeking a similar pedigree for the Hollinworth family -) "The ancestor of the (Godley) family was evidently Reginald, who had sons, William & Adam, who settled in Godlev and adopted the place name as their surname. Indeed it is by no means unlikely that the land 'in the territory of Mottram' granted to Adam by Thomas de Burgh, was Godley. Adam's sons certainly include William & Robert; but it is more difficult to decide whether Thomas was their brother or not ... There is no doubt that further examination of the Godley charters would make it possible to reconstruct the early pedigrees of other lesser manorial families in Longdendale & the neighbourhood - in particular Stavelev, Hattersley, Whaley, HOLLINGWORTH and Matley - the origin of which are still obscure. (The reader must note: the origin of the family of Hollingworth, with others, was still obscure! prior to the lith gentury, as of the year 1957 then this work went to press!)

Professor Carraclough establishes the fact that this charter with the name of the witness, "Tomas De Holinewurthe," was concluded between the years 1211 - 1225 A.D. This writer must draw the conclusion, therefore, that the name is the very earliest on record, & that this may very well have been "the first Hollingworth!" The Given names of this clan of the Godlevs, you will see, are identical with the names used in the Hollingworth families of Cheshire. The writer also possesses information not yet published in the REGISTER, to show that names such as "REGINALD (or REINOLD, RENOLD, REGNOULD), HUGH, WILLIAM, ROBERT," were prized even down to the year when the Parish Registers of Mottram Church (St. Michael & All Angels) begin, in 1559: In an Inquisition taken in Lancashire about May, 1246, one of the panel was "THOMAS de HOLINWORTHE," along with "THOMAS de GODDELEG(H)," or "Godley." (Record Society, Vol. 48, pt. 1, p. 161.) Might the Godley & Hollingworth families have been related?

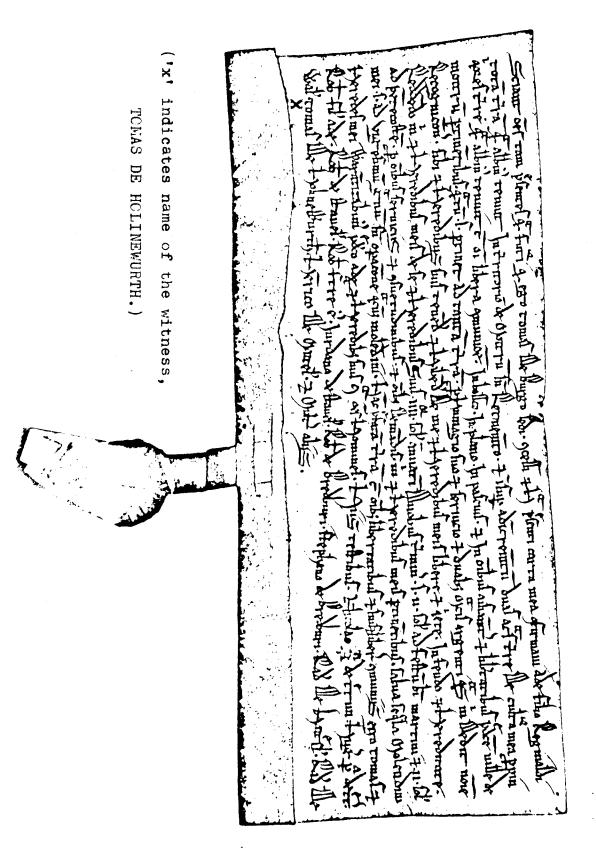

The writer knows too, that wherever the early members of the Hollingworth family "popped up," in other counties in England, the names of Reinold & Hugh, to be sure, popped up with them. To illustrate: In Hertfordshire in the early 1500's, and in Derby at a similar early time; in Lancashire in the 1600's etc. The "family", if we are in fact dealing with but one family, all descended from just one man who adopted the Cheshire placename as his surname - possibly this "Tomas De Holinewurthe", in this extremely remote period, is not readily found outside Cheshire. At "the other Hollinworth," but a few miles north of this one (See REGISTER, Vol. 2, p. 83) the surname appears in the very same century as our subject! It is not at all impossible to believe that the "Matthew de Hollinworthe" of Butterworth, Lancashire, who lived about the middle of the 13th century, may have been a son of the above Thomas! The increasing scarcity of persons bearing the surname, as we examine records backward from the present until that ancient day, support the idea that perhaps just one man adopted the name, from whom all present-day Hollingworths (and even Hollingsworths) descend. (Illustration of Charter on p. 40A courtesy Society of Antiquaries, London.)

The name "NEVILLE," or "NEWELL," seems to appear in conjunction with the Hollingworths or Hollingsworths quite often: William Neville in Longdendale as above, near Thomas de Holineworthe; John Newell of Dublin, whose daughter married Henry Hollin(s) worth of Co Down, Ireland (see page 31 et seq); and the fact that the property where the editor's ancestor settled, Ballycanev, Co Wexford, Ireland, once was known, and often is still called by its ancient manorial name: The Manor of Neville's Court! Again, remarkably, some Newells were also of the Quaker religion and lived in the area, and worshipped at the same meeting, with Valentine Hollingsworth! Remember: All of this is just coincidence, as far as can be judged!

BOYD'S MARRIAGE INDEX-HOLLING(S) WORTHS IN ESSEX, ENGLAND, 1538-1837;

Dr. Percival Boyd (deceased) of the London Society of Genealogists, performed the most valuable research work in English genealogical annals when he indexed over 1,000,000 marriages from printed & manuscript sources. Typed copy for ESSEX is available at the Genealogical Society, Salt Lake City, Utah, (942.67 V 25b). He had 374 out of 402 Parish records available to him. Only 76 marriages of persons of our surname were noted. Here they are. (Full dates not given.)

(* Unintelligible to us.) "PROBATUM fuit apd Halliswurth vie Die mens maij Anno dmi mleccccc*

xix..." (Ipswich Archdeaconry Wills, Volume VIII. folios 81, 82.).

(*The date Millesimo quingentesimo undevicesimo (1519) is expressed above as Mle. DDDDD xix in recorded will. We changed the "DDDDD" to "CCCCC" which is correct Latin. We don't understand why five D'swhich they seem to be - were used.) Dated Mar. 22, 1518; Froved May 6, 1519.

This is one of the earliest wills of any Hollingworth in existance. Strangely, it is far from Cheshire, in a county or shire which has played host to almost no members of this ancient family. The Last will of Margery Holynvorthe of Hallisvorth (now Halesworth) widow of the above Nicholas, was probated in 1522. One other will, the earliest of all, perhaps, is for a "John Holvngworth of Haverhill. Co Suffolk," probated in 1487! Haverhill is on the border of Essex & Cambridge and this John may be connected with the Essex families we dealt with here. "Nicholas" is a Given name among the Wexford branch of the Hollingsworths, as you know. The above is the earliest example of its use by the Hollingworth family. The period in which this man lived and died was prior to the Great Schism when Henry VIII. abolished the power of the Roman Popes over spiritual matters in England.

For these two reasons the will has been published here.
