Extracted by Thomas Boyd solicitor, New Ross and 60 Lower Dominick
St., Dublin. Effects sworn under FIVE THOUSAND POUNDS - And that the Testator died 9th Sept. 1862.

Notes by Editor: We believe Edward Dalton was much older than Susan Hollingsworth his wife. He also may have been previously married. The death date is too early for the Civil Death Registrations, which began in 1864. The Parish Registers covering Raheenduff Townland perished in 1922 and no copy is known to us. Squire Edward Dalton was a very wealthy man in his time and community. His descendants still live in the neighborhood in south east County Wexford. James Robinson of Kilbraney was related. Kilbraney is part of the Townland of Abbeybraney where old John Jones lived in the 1700s. Susan Hollingsworth Dalton survived until 1888, and was the last survivor of her brothers and sisters.

Letters:

Cincinnati 11, Ohio
May 16, 1962

Dear Mr. Hollingsworth:

While I am a little late in answering your letter of March 17, I was not in a position to answer your letter because I was not fully acquainted with the details you asked for, in fact am still gathering information.

My great-grandfather lived in Wexford County, Ireland and I am informed that his name was Samuel Hollingsworth. He had four boys who came to this country and settled in the Brooklyn, New York area. My grandfather's name was Loftus, he was the third oldest and later moved to Scotch Plains, New Jersey.

The second oldest brother was named Ben. A man by the name of Valentine Hollingsworth had published a book and it was completed up to and including my grandfather's brother Ben, but the third and fourth children, in other words my grandfather and his younger brother, were not mentioned. I have seen this book but at the moment do not know where it got to. My grandfather had five boys and four girls, the oldest of the boys being my father, Loftus Franks Hollingsworth. The other four boys were named - Samuel, Frank, Albert and William. The girls were named - Louisa, Agnes, Elizabeth and Nell. Of this family Elizabeth, now about 92, and Samuel, now about 84, are living and my Uncle Sam is the one who gave me this information and who will give me more information which I will send to you regarding the names of my grandfather's brothers and the time when they came to this country.

My Uncle, Samuel Hollingsworth, is living in the Park Hotel, Plainfield, New Jersey and at this hotel he apparently ran into someone who was familiar with the family and told this story, which is just a story.

It seems that the Hollingsworth family originated in England. In about 1400, during the wars, a land grant was made in Ireland. In order to take advantage of this it became necessary that this land be occupied and consequently the family was split, half remaining in England and half going to Wexford County in Ireland.

Of all of the male relatives to whom I have referred to above, only Loftus and Albert had children and I have one cousin, Albert, by name of Hollingsworth. He has no children. I have a son and two daughters and therefore my son, Sam, will, I believe, be the only remaining male Hollingsworth of the four brothers who came here from Ireland.

I wanted to write you now to acknowledge your letter without further delay, however will write you further when more information becomes available from Uncle Sam.

Sincerely,

Samuel R. Hollingsworth

Cincinnati 11, Ohio

NOTE: This nice response to our canvass of Cincinnati Hollingsworths nearly two decades ago, was one of the few which dealt with your editor's County Wexford family (Wexford County is highly improper!). Others either ignored the letters or knew nothing. Most of what Mr. Hollingsworth says is true. The A.D. 1400 land grant in Ireland is pure myth. Never happened! "Just a story." The book by "Valentine Hollingsworth" probably is Stewart's book of 1925. If so, or if it was the 1884 predecessor volume, the final pages of either of these works do show this family. However, Ben Hollingsworth is not named - only Edmund Valentine Hollingsworth, the oldest brother. (His middle name has no connection to the Quaker chap, E.V.H. was born on 14 February 1830 and that was the reason for that.) See our obituary column this issue.

From Docket 9688, a true copy made and dated 24 Apr 1967 from James E. Abrams, Surrogate, for your editor. This man was born in Scotland and represents the very rare Scottish born Hollingsworth family. His will was shorter than Dalton's, wasn't it?

While living in Scotch Plains, Mr. Hollingsworth served on the board of the Scotch Plains Library and on the Scotch Plains Board of Education.

(3) Clyde Dixon Hollingsworth, Sr., Sylvania, Georgia - 1965.

Clyde D. Hollingsworth Sr. Few men have left their mark in civic annals of their communities to a greater degree than Clyde Dixon Hollingsworth Sr. of Sylvania, who died Thursday (23 Sept 1965) at the age of 72.

In many fields of accomplishment Mr. Hollingsworth had shown his devotion to his home town, to his home county and to their people. His professional and business achievements alone were noteworthy, including farming and insurance business operation; 12 years as county treasurer; postmaster of Sylvania from 1939 to 1959; and publisher of the Sylvania Telephone, one of Georgia's outstanding weekly newspapers.

In addition, however, Mr. Hollingsworth had distinguished himself in many fields which were not vocational. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps in World War I. Interested in the history of his city and county, and well prepared academically by training at Mercer University, he wrote ~~the~~ only published history of Screven County. Other historical articles also came from his pen in addition to the volume of writing necessary to the publication of a community newspaper.

Mr. Hollingsworth showed his civic, religious and professional concern for constructive projects by active participation in Masonry, the Boy Scouts, the Georgia Press Association and the Baptist Church. His fellow Rotarians recognized his ability and civic awareness by electing him president.

In all his many fields of local activity, Mr. Hollingsworth will be sorely missed, as he will be by his fellow publishers and editors throughout the state in the Georgia Press Association.

The projects which he has launched, supported and carried to the successful conclusion will live on as a memorial to his good citizenship.

From the Augusta Chronicle, Augusta, Georgia, 25 Sept. 1965. The subject was one of ~~HR~~'s earliest subscribers and supporters. This obit was never published before in this journal. The passage of sixteen years since his departure has not dimmed our memory of his support. A man like that should have lived decades longer!

Henry Hollingsworth, Tommy Barker and Reggie Carter combined for 62 points to lead Hawaii (5-0) to an 81-80 upset win over 12th-ranked University of San Francisco (4-1) at Honolulu Friday night. (4) Schuyler Hollingsworth of Harvard University staff, by his letter of 12 Feb 1981, forwarded a long excerpt from The Republic's Private Navy, (1977) by Jerome R. Garitee (Pub. for Mystic Seaport, Inc., by Wesleyan University Press, Middletown, Conn.). It bears the helpful subtitle: 'The American Privateering Business as practiced by Baltimore during the War of 1812.' Members of a certain cluster of Baltimore merchants included the Hollingsworths, said to be related to some of the others in the group, i.e., Smiths, Von Kapffs, Partidges and others. They joined in ownership of various vessels. Some of them were armed. The firm of Thomas and Samuel Hollingsworth who were flour merchants, were "nonparticipants in private armed vessels." Mention is made of the famous "Baltimore's Levi Hollingsworth (who) was a man of means also. Active in commerce and shipowning, he moved flour, tobacco, and dry goods while operating the Gunpowder Copper Works. His copper was used by local shipbuilders and the navy for years and his production of 100 tons a year was second only to the (Paul) Revere Copper Works. Hollingsworth noted in December of 1812, "I have $70,000 in copper" while engaging in numerous other activities...Thomas and Samuel Hollingsworth, critical of relative Levi for playing the role of party chieftain, charged that his interest stemmed from his desire for government copper contracts. They observed that while men had been known to sell their country for gold, Baltimore's Levi sold his "for the sake of copper." "Patriotism is now old fashioned and out of the question," they wrote to their Federalist relative in Philadelphia - also a Levi Hollingsworth."

Baltimore's Levi engaged in a duel with Charles Kilgour. Both men were in the Maryland legislature. Kilgour verbally attacked Hollingsworth. The outcome of the duel is not shown. Levi was a Madison Republican, and supported the declaration of war. Later he said, however, that "The advantage of discipline, and skill and practice in war is such that I tremble at the idea of a conflict for the preservation of one of our cities." He became one of nine leading share earners, the 3rd lowest with $481,770. Another Hollingsworth, not Levi, was partner with Jeremiah Sullivan, of the firm of Hollingsworth and Sullivan. Sullivan's share: $509,174!

The appendices of this book show: Levi Hollingsworth - merchant and shipowner; proprietor of the Gunpowder Copper Works; director of the Chesapeake Insurance Company; manager of the Washington Monument Committee and Washington Monument Lottery; member of the State Senate; member of the Relief Committee for Easton (Talbot County); member of the Penitentiary Committee; member of the Fourth of July Committee; private in the Independent Company; letter-of-marque bond surety; Madison Republican (see Levi Hollingsworth Papers in the Maryland Historical Society and Hollingsworth Manuscripts in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.) The latter consist of Correspondence, 1761-1887. The 1812-1815 Correspondence contained in 14 boxes. The former, in the MHS is Hollingsworth Papers 1732-1891, 1 box.

(5) Finally, a letter to your editor dated 2 Nov. 1964, from the Public Archives of Canada, Ottawa, included these notes about military Hollingsworths:

The name of James Hollandsworth appears on pay lists of the Queen's Rangers from 25 December 1791 - 10 April 1792 and from 25 June to 24 December 1793.

The name of John Hollingsworth appears on the pay lists of the same unit from 11 April - 24 June 1792 (War Office 12, Volume 11,035, 3 pages).

MILTON HOLLINGSWORTH - SKETCH

MILTON HOLLINGSWORTH one of the farmers of Washington Township, (Knox County, Indiana) is a son of Bernard and Nancy A. (McKee) Hollingsworth. The father was born in 1791, in South Carolina. The Mother, a native of Kentucky, was born in 1798. Both came to this county when young and their matrimonial rites were solemnized in 1816. After marriage they settled in Washington Township, where they spent the remainder of their days. By occupation the father was a farmer, being quite a large landowner. During his entire life he was an industrious and energetic worker. When a young man he joined the Baptist Church, but afterward became a member of the Christian Church. He was a Republican. In 1876 the father was called from among the living. The mother died two years before. Our subject was born in 1842 in Washington Township. In boyhood he had very ordinary advantages for education, having to walk two miles to school. In 1861 when the dissolution of the Union was threatened, Milton, though only nineteen years of age, enlisted in Company H, Fifty-first Indiana Infantry. At Stone River, Shiloh, Corinth and Nashville, he and the other brave boys of Company H fought manfully for home and country. After the last named engagement they were ordered to San Antonio, Tex., where they remained until the close of the war. At Stone River he received three wounds, and as a partial compensation receives $2 per month from the Government. Having served his country faithfully for over four years he returned, bearing an honorable discharge. In 1868 he was married to Martha A. Martin, born in 1850, in Washington Township. She is the daughter of James P. and Martha (Chambers) Martin. To Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth eight children were born: Ulysses G., William S., Ellis H., James U., Urania G., John, Anna and Logan. Mrs. Hollingsworth is a member of the Christian Church. Mr. Hollingsworth is a staunch Republican and cast his first vote for Lincoln. At the death of his father our subject received 138 acres of land, of which about 100 acres are under cultivation. As a farmer he has been quite successful, and is considered one of the first citizens of the county. (From History of Knox and Daviess Counties, Indiana, (1886) Chicago, The Goodspeed Publishing Company, Washington Township section, pages 427 and 428. See H.R. 1 (Apr 1965) page 29, for the U.S. 1850 Census reading of the household of Bernard Hollingsworth.)

The Higginbotham and Hollingsworth Golden Wedding

Golden weddings are rare in the family of Frederick Hollingsworth! In fact, we think, there have only been two of them since Frederick left the gang plank of the brig William on the 16th of July 1829 in New York bound for Cincinnati. We could be wrong. But the first was on November 4, 1930, when Jack Hollingsworth (John Benjamin), your editor's granddad, and his wife Mary Agnes McGovern, celebrated their fiftieth anniversary at 10812 Lemon Avenue in Lennox (now Inglewood, around the corner from where we are sitting now), California. Jack and Mary had married fifty years before in 1880 in Minneapolis, Minn. Jack was a grandson of Frederick Hollingsworth. In fact, Jack was the first grandchild born to Frederick & Elizabeth (Brown) Hollingsworth.

The second Golden Wedding in the lineage of Frederick Hollingsworth took place on Saturday, June 20, 1981. That was of your editor's second cousin, Rachel Elizabeth Hollingsworth, with her husband James Marion Higginbotham.

The couple was married before your editor was born. But only a month before! On 19 June 1931, here in Los Angeles. Four fine children came to make this family happy, and all were present at the occasion. They are: Lorene Ann Higginbotham and her husband Arthur Cecil Luper, Jr.; Marilyn Rae Higginbotham and spouse Ernest Keniston Salter; James Douglas Higginbotham and wife Judith Lee Crisi; and Christine Lynn Higginbotham and her husband, Clifford Edwin Hauser. Along with these happy well-wishers were the grandchildren, and the new great-grandchild, Jason Lee Ramey, noted on page 12 in our March 1981 issue. Your editor was not present, unfortunately, for his water heater burst at the wrong time.

Rachel Higginbotham began researching her husband's genealogy at the same time, approximately (1959) as your editor. In fact, if he hadn't started on the knotty Hollingsworth problem, she would probably have done it up better. The result is her work (1977) "Ancestors and Descendants of James Larkin Higginbotham of Noxubee County, Mississippi," with coat of arms illustration name index, and 198 pages.

The reception was given for the well deserved couple from 2 until 5 o'clock at the First Baptist Church of Huntington Park, 2662 Clarendon Avenue, in Huntington Park, California, the city where the couple have made their home for many years.

Now, Rachel, Dear Cousin, let's go for the Diamond!

Letter to HR from Mr. Donald S. Clarke:

1784 S. Deshon Rd.
Lithonia, Georgia 30058
February 9, 1981

Dear Mr. Hollingsworth,

Your December 1980 issue couldn't have come at a better time. I had just finished organizing my notes to start an outline for a history of Isaiah Hollingsworth's, of Rex, Georgia, branch of Valentine Hollingsworth's family. Pages 76, 77 and 78 of this issue gave me some valuable information that I had not seen before. How I missed this information I don't know. I have been through the Georgia Genealogical Magazines at the Georgia Archives many times, but many of those times I was checking other surnames. Of course with so much genealogical information being published it is possible I just haven't gotten around to finding this yet. It still amazes me each time I write a paper on a branch of my family how much more information comes to light after I write the paper and people know I am interested in information on that branch no matter how much research I had done before the paper was written. I almost can't wait until Saturday to get to the Archives to look at that issue of the Georgia Genealogical Magazine.

Besides adding information on Great Great Aunt Elliott's branch the most valuable piece of information is the J. P. Davis letter to Elliott Smith mentioning her father! Isaiah's death before March 3, 1878 and what he died of. Up until this time we had only been able to establish that Isaiah's death was between August 30, 1877 when he signed his last deed and June 1, 1879, when the Mortality Schedule for the 1880 census started. His wife Martha, who was called Patsey, was listed as a widow in the 1880 census and was living with her and Isaiah's son, Isaiah L. Hollingsworth and his family. Isaiah L. Hollingsworth on page 77 of your December 1980 issue is listed as J. L. Hollingsworth (25). Isaiah L. was deeded most of Isaiah and Martha's (Patsey's) real and personal property on Jan. 7, 1871 and Feb. 9, 1874 in return that he was to take care of (them) for the rest of their lives.

It is unfortunate that J.P. Davis didn't mention where Isaiah was buried. I live less than ten miles from Rex, Georgia and I have searched for many years for his grave and have yet to find it. Some of the family seem to think Isaiah is buried in the old Concord Church Cemetery in Henry County near Rex. Concord Church itself no longer exists but I have been through the cemetery and the only thing I have found is a case of poison ivy...The list on p. 76 of Isaiah and his children is the 4th I have seen ...on page 77 Isaiah's mother is named Jane, but in J. Adger Stewart's book her name is Jennie. Which is correct? Also on p. 78 for Jane (45) you note an error in the date of death. Do you have her date of death? It is not impossible that two members of the same family would die on the same day because of an accident, epidemic, or as in one case I know of the doctor gave the family some bad medicine... On Isaiah I have a lot of information that has not been put in a history before, deeds, tax records, court records, civil war records, agricultural censuses, etc. Of Isaiah's children, James Perry Hollingsworth, my Great Grandfather, will be the main branch I will cover in this history...I am also including sections on James Perry Hollingsworth's wife, Ella C. Cook's family and on Hannah McKay Hollingsworth's family. She was the wife of George Hollingsworth<sup>4</sup> (Etc.). Hannah McKay's father, Robert, led a very interesting life in the Shenandoah Valley.

One of the main reasons for writing this history is that the Hollingsworth Grist Mill at Rex, Georgia is still standing. According to the present owner, who has turned the mill into an antique store, many people come by the mill looking for information on the Hollingsworth family...When I started my research it became apparent that Isaiah was not the first Hollingsworth to build and operate a grist or other type of mill. I know there was a Hollingsworth Mill on Raeburn Creek in Laurens County, South Carolina in December 1775 from Revolutionary War histories...We also know several Hollingsworth mills were on Abram's Creek at Winchester, Virginia. In Sept. 1975 I met John V. Hollingsworth's wife at Fairville, Pa. Mr. Hollingsworth was very ill at that time and died soon after. So I did not get a chance to talk to him personally...John, himself, ran a sawmill and lumber supply business. Do you have any information on Valentine or his sons ever operating any kind of mill in Delaware or on the Elk River in Cecil County, Maryland? I have heard there was a mill on the Elk River but I can't find a source for this information. The reason I ask is that I am doing a section in my paper on the Hollingsworths and Mills and I would like it to be as complete as possible. Information such as this might also help preserve the Rex, Georgia mill from urban encroachment if we can establish it as part of a tradition in the Hollingsworth family and thereby make it more interesting to the County Historical Society...

I hope this letter is readable as usual I am writing it late at night after a full day's work and my mind is probably not as alert as it should be.

Thank you,

(Donald S. Clarke)

NOTE: Your editor thanks Mr. Clarke for his letter and hope that this presentation of excerpts from it will help the cause. But this year has been, to use a hackneyed cliché, "hectic" for us too.

Editor's Comments:

Many things have presented themselves to thwart an on-time publication of Hollingsworth Register this year. A visit to Salt Lake City to do client research finally came off from July 6-19. All of this stalled the typing of this journal. The trip had been planned for May. A little data was gleaned for HR which is running here. Genealogy is not on people's minds now, due to Reagan-economics. It is a hobby and people just do not expend sums to hire such as us when there are potatoes to buy and babies to feed. Maybe if we had a ranch at Santa Barbara you would get Hollingsworth Register more regularly. No charge for the sarcasm. But Jimmy Carter was worse!
